Be the Gospel

By Marisa Smucker

This past year, Mennonite Mission Network joined Anabaptists worldwide to commemorate 500 years of Anabaptism. It was an important time of reflecting on Anabaptist history and the pivotal role mission has played in shaping Anabaptist theology, spread, and survival. Today, the legacy endures through the ongoing commitment of organizations, like Mission Network, congregations and partners around the globe, to share Jesus' liberating salvation through teaching, social justice, peacebuilding, health ministries and community service.

Sharing the good news is a communal calling — participating together in God's transformative work in the world. Mission Network weaves a tapestry of faith, service and justice, embodying the Anabaptist vision of peace and mutual care for one another. Through this shared effort, we empower individuals and communities to be the Gospel in tangible ways.

At the heart of our international work is our commitment to walk alongside local communities, uplifting their leadership rather than imposing external solutions. In Latin America, we prioritize uplifting Indigenous and women leaders, theological education, peacebuilding and community development.

Across Africa and Europe, we engage in building leadership and offering hospitality, while seeking justice and peace. In Asia, we emphasize holistic mission, including peacebuilding training and cross-cultural relationships that strengthen local churches.

Here, in North America, we support emerging and established Mennonite congregations with resources, training and speakers. We also engage in community outreach through programs like Mennonite Voluntary Service (MVS), Service Adventure and Service Opportunities with Our Partners (SOOP) in urban settings.

None of this would be possible without you. Our mission flows from the broader church's calling, amplified through our partnership with conferences, congregations, schools and other agencies. Together, we are more effective and far-reaching.

It is truly a joy and an honor for us to be able to serve in this way and partner with each of you! ■

In gratitude,

Marisa Smucker

Africa

Africa is home to the largest Anabaptist population in the world. Mission Network has engaged in holistic mission work in Africa for over a century, focusing on biblical and theological education, healthcare, community development and peacebuilding; supporting workers and partners across 11 countries. Our efforts emphasize collaboration, mutuality and reconciliation, working alongside local partners to address spiritual and material needs through two-way mission.

Examples of our ongoing projects

Botswana — We first engaged in Botswana in the 1970s through a partnership with the Botswana Christian Council and local churches, focusing primarily on holistic community development, peacebuilding and leadership training rather than traditional proselytizing. Current support focuses on peace education within youth programs by two partners.

Congo — We collaborate with Africa Inter-Mennonite Mission to support Congolese churches through leadership training, women's literacy programs and humanitarian aid.

South Africa — We support church leaders with Bible conferences, women's theology groups, theological education and conflict resolution.

Daniel Dama (center) uses his love for music and peacebuilding skills, which he honed through the Masters of Conflict Transformation program at mission partner Le Centre de Formation à la Justice et à la Paix (Justice and Peace Training Center) in Ivory Coast.

Uganda — The Mennonite Church in Uganda receives institutional support for its work in 31 congregations in Uganda, two in South Sudan and the Lamb's Christian School.

A Sister Care/Compassionate Care ministry has been registered in Uganda. This is in tandem with initiatives under the leadership of Anabaptist women in East Africa, Rwanda, Tanzania and Kenya.

West Africa — Our efforts include theological training and scholarships for the Église Evangélique Mennonite du Burkina Faso (Evangelical Mennonite Church of Burkina Faso), Ghana Mennonite Church and institutional support for the Nigeria Mennonite Church bible school and for the Good News Theological Seminary in Ghana. ■

Asia, Australia and the Middle East

Mennonite Mission Network engages in ministries across Asia, Australia and the Middle East, focusing on holistic witness, community development and fostering Anabaptist values, like peace, reconciliation and mutual respect. Our ministries prioritize long-term, two-way mission relationships and partnerships with local communities.

Examples of our ongoing projects

Indonesia — Mission Network has been engaged in Indonesia since 2009, partnering primarily with three Indigenous Anabaptist church bodies — Gereja Injili di Tanah Jawa (GITJ), Gereja Kristen Muria Indonesia (GKMI) and Sinode Jemaat Kristen Indonesia (JKI) — together comprising over 107,000 members. Through long-term partnerships and short term experiences like Youth Venture, we support theological education, peacebuilding, environmental stewardship and theological leadership development for young adults. Our partnerships emphasize mutual learning and shared resources and personnel.

India — Predecessor agencies sent missionaries to India in 1899. Today we walk alongside Indian-led Mennonite denominations and ministries in healthcare, theological education, inter-denominational cooperation and community ministries.

Japan — Predecessor agencies began ministries in Japan in 1949. We now partner with the Mennonite conferences in Hokkaido, Kyushu and Tokyo, walking alongside multiple families like, Akiko Aratani and Ray Epp with Menno Village, and Angela and Tomoki Yamanaka at Asahikawa Gospel Church.

Mongolia — In 1993, a predecessor agency, Mennonite Board of Missions, established the Mongolia Mission Partnership with Joint Christian Services International (JCS) and Ohio Mennonite Conference churches. After Mongolia opened to the world in 1990 (with only five known Christians), we sent Laura Schlabach to Ulaanbaatar as JCS's finance officer. She later served in executive leadership. Key initiatives of the organization include:

- Community development
- Theological education and church planting
- Women's ministry

South Korea — Building on post-Korean War relief, the Korea Anabaptist Center in Seoul was established in 2001 and provides Anabaptist education and training.

Mission associates Jae Young Lee and Karen Spicher, and their family, live and work at the Peace Building Community in Namyangju, which is home to our partner organizations: Korea Association for Restorative Justice (KARJ), Korea Peacebuilding Institute (KOPI), and Northeast Asia Regional Peacebuilding Institute (NARPI).

Taiwan — Commission on Overseas Mission, a predecessor agency, began church-planting ministries in Taiwan in 1954, sending Hugh and Janet Sprunger. Now, with 24 locally-led Mennonite churches, we sustain ongoing partnerships through worker delegations and mentoring.

Our partner Mennonite Christian Hospital (MCH) in Hualien — the world's largest Mennonite hospital — opened in 1954, under North American mission workers, but is now fully led by Taiwanese professionals. Mission Network workers Caleb and Stephanie Schrock-Hurst serve in multiple capacities at MCH.

Our partner Mennonite New Dawn Educare Center supports individuals and families affected by intellectual disabilities.

Thailand — Thailand hosts four Anabaptist denominations, with over 63,000 members combined. We partner with Hmong District 20 of the Church of Christ to support Hmong and other communities.

Associates Jonah and Memee Yang lead seminars across Southeast Asia, empowering women through Sister Care seminars, strengthening marriages through Compassionate Care programs and equipping emerging leaders via adapted theological training like the Anabaptist Mennonite Biblical Seminary's Journey missional leadership courses. ■

Kazutomo Aratani Epp and architect Masayuki Nagata, build a Hitsuji ("sheep" in the Japanese language) House to serve as an educational center and place of spiritual reflection, centered on biblical teachings of Jesus as the Good Shepherd and the sacrificial lamb, and God's people as tended sheep of God's pasture.

Europe

Beginning in the 1950s, Mission Network's predecessor agencies helped establish sites of Anabaptist theological expression in Europe, through learning and research initiatives, like the Paris (France) Mennonite Center. More recently, Mission Network has added work with local congregations and partnered with organizations serving refugee and immigrant populations.

Mission Network's work in Europe emphasizes Anabaptist theology and practice, peace-building, and offering hospitality to people seeking refuge from violence. These ministries align with Mission Network's broader mission of fostering mutual relationships, supporting local leadership and sharing Christ's reconciling love, with a commitment to antiracism and diversity.

Examples of our ongoing projects

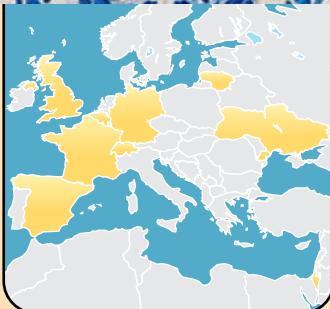

Belgium — Mission Network supports the Center for Peace and Conflict Transformation, offering a three-level certificate program in peace and conflict transformation in Brussels and online.

France and Spain — Mission Network workers engage in community-based ministries. In France, Joseph and Rachel Givens accompany migrating people at the Maria Skobtsova House, in Calais. Ben and Laurel Woodward-

Switzerland — In the 1950s, Mennonites from North America helped establish the European Mennonite Bible School, which became the Bienenberg Theological Seminary in 1957. Mission Network partners with Swiss and French Mennonites to support a four-year program in Anabaptism and leadership development, designed for people who can't study full-time.

United Kingdom — Mission Network's work in the U.K. began in 1952, with a ministry providing housing for international students. In the 1970s, Mission Network workers collaborated with Christians revitalizing churches in a post-Christian context, leading to the creation of the London Mennonite Centre. It spawned the Anabaptist Mennonite Trust, a governing organization that supports initiatives in church planting, refugee support and Anabaptist education. ■

Ben and Laurel Woodward-Breckbill host people at the Paris Mennonite Center.

Breckbill were named directors of the Paris Mennonite Center, uniting ministries in worship, education and hospitality. Mission Network also supports the annual Anabaptist theology conference in Spain and partners with the congregation in Burgos with funding the ministries of La Casa Grande, Benin.

Lithuania — Mission Network supports the Center for Dialogue and Conflict Transformation at LCC International University, a long-time partner. Founded in the post-Soviet context of Lithuania, LCC

Latin America

We partner with churches and communities in 12 countries across Latin America, fostering church planting, leadership development, peacebuilding and community empowerment.

We actively support regional initiatives, including the Movimiento de Mujeres Anabautistas Haciendo Teología desde América Latina (MTAL) and Comunidad de Instituciones Teológicas Anabautistas (CITA). Our work prioritizes equitable partnerships, peacebuilding workshops, support for vulnerable communities and education — reflecting God's reconciling love.

Examples of our ongoing projects

Argentina — Iglesia Evangélica Menonita Argentina, planted in 1917, is a fully Indigenous church with 5,000 members across 60 congregations. Our partnership focuses on Argentine-led holistic development among the Qom and Wichí communities, trauma healing, theological education, peace/justice advocacy and youth ministries blending Anabaptist faith with local culture. Alfonsina Finger and José Oyanguren serve in the Chaco, supported by U.S. and Argentine churches.

Bolivia — Partnering since 1954, we accompany three autonomous conferences, with more than 40,000 — primarily Indigenous — members. Our priorities include theological education, trauma healing, sustainable agriculture, women's leadership, youth discipleship and Indigenous rights advocacy. Bolivian churches now lead in sending mission workers to other countries in the region. Iglesia Evangélica Menonita Boliviana runs Guardería Samuelito daycare; its 50th anniversary was celebrated in 2025.

Brazil — We are strengthening ties with Aliança Evangélica Menonita through Sister Care, women's empowerment and International Women's Fund scholarships.

Colombia — We support Iglesia Cristiana Menonita de Colombia (IMCOL) ministries in Colombia/Peru and partner with Central Plains Mennonite Conference (CPC) in Ecuador/Venezuela. Online seminary courses extend theological education. Laura and Nick Sharp recently relocated to La Mesa, Columbia, to teach at Colegio Americano Menno.

Ecuador — The Ecuador Partnership unites Mission Network, IMCOL and CPC. Workers Delicia Bravo Aguilar and Peter

Wigginton helped form the Ecuador Peace Team amid rising violence.

Guatemala — We collaborate with Seminario Anabautista Latinoamericano (SEMILLA) and CITA for theological education; provide support for Iglesia Nacional Evangélica Menonita Guatemalteca ministries, including Q'eqchi' Bezaleel Mennonite Educational Center and women's scholarships. Seth and Stephany Rudeen teach English and support community development at Bezaleel Mennonite Educational Center.

Mexico — We have a long-term relationship with Conferencia de Iglesias Evangélicas Anabautistas Menonitas de México, focused on theological education through CITA.

Paraguay — We support Convención Evangélica Menonita Paraguaya in leadership development, theological studies, youth/ women's ministries and unique initiatives like Capellanía Empresarial.

Peru — In Iquitos, we partner with the Iglesia Cristiana Menonita del Perú — a partnership developed by IMCOL. Their ministries reach approximately 400 children weekly across four zones, in addition to youth discipleship in music, art and English.

Venezuela — Amid challenges, we partner with IMCOL and CPC to support Venezuelan Mennonite churches in development, compassionate ministries, education and peacemaking. ■

Discover J.D. Graber's powerful counter-cultural message in this new biography

This compelling biography traces J. D. Graber's 43-year mission career, from his groundbreaking work in 1920s India to his leadership of the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities (a Mission Network predecessor agency).
